SKI CAPTAIN
Howard (torn between two loves) Nicholson.

Our family is just back from an overnight trip into Rangiwahia Hut, and a little beyond. It was a spur of the moment decision as a weather window opened and, despite a little clag Sunday morning and drizzle on the way out, very pleasant. Delightful actually; walking out onto the broad expanse of tussock above the hut.

Rangi is a serviced 3 ticket hut, costing $15.30 per night. For that one gets somewhere to sleep, an internal cold water tap, and gas cooking and heating. With helicopter costs I doubt DOC are making much of a profit.

In comparison, at our lodge, we're charging $26 per night for much more luxurious accommodation and food is included! Another comparison is the bunkroom rate at a backpackers which is $25, if you're a member.

The view was expressed at the recent AGM that our fees are too low since the lodge account is not as healthy as in the past. Because of advance bookings it isn't practical to further increase fees for this season however they will be reviewed later this year. In the meantime, make the most of the winter!

We have a new committee and I take great pleasure in welcoming Liz Flint and Bob Hodgson to it. Thank you, in advance, for your contributions.

This cooler weather is starting to get me excited. Turoa is scheduled to open on 25 June & Whakapapa on 2 July. In preparation, our annual "food carry" workparty at the Lodge on 11-12 June will see the larders stocked & a final tidy-up done before the main ski season kicks off. I hope you can make it.

Improvements to the High Noon Express chairlift at Turoa appear to be on track, which should improve its reliability and resilience to our infamously severe weather. See <http://www.mtruapehu.com/> for more updates on this.

A $1 increase in lodge fees this year reflects the increasing costs of being on the mountain. The committee has been asked to review the fees again later this year, to ensure that they cover the real costs of running the lodge. In the meantime, I suggest that you plan your stay early, at what must be one of the most social & best value lodges around.

Chief Guide's Report.

After winning a cool retro lime green FMC packliner recently, she seems to have vanished to test it out...

However, the new trip card is well & truly out -with all the interesting stuff to do at this time of the year involving fluffy, sometimes wet, white stuff, one could be forgiven a little for reticence on the report side.

FMC Conference 11-12 June

As the umbrella group turns 80 years young, a conference held at TePapa will help to shape the direction this venerated volunteer organisation will take. There will be at least one member of MTSC at this event but with speakers like Craig Potton it promises to be one worth going to! FMC president Richard Davies gave a small taste of the conference at the last club night that packed out the room.

TRIP REPORTS

Wednesday Trampers 6 April. Deadmans Loop by Liz Flint

10 hardy trampers left Palmy at 7.30am & after picking up Jill at Kimbolton we arrived at Rangi car park to be greeted by 3 more from Feilding on a cold & cloudy day. The first of the "winter" southerlies was still blowing through but it was decided to stick to the original plan to take the Dead Man's track up to Mangahuia & on to Rangi hut.

Liz kept the group together & we were soon out of the bush & onto the open tussock. The track was quite well marked but with low clouds it was often difficult to see the next waratah. Short breaks were taken every hour & an early lunch was had by the tarns. Some snow was on the ground & with the temperature at zero & a freezing wind, it was into full storm weather gear for the climb to the top of Mangahuia. The worst part of the trip was the short drop down from the tarn before we started the climb but everyone managed to negotiate the sometimes overgrown track without incident.

Once at the top it was an enjoyable descent to Rangi hut for a rest & to take on board more food & drink - still low cloud so very little to see. A quick trip back to the carpark, notwithstanding the slip saw us back at the bus just after 4pm. A very enjoyable trip & really demonstrated to all the benefit of just taking their time, being together & being kept fully informed of progress.

Wednesday Group 27 April - Waitohu Lodge

It turned out this track was not one that a lot of the Wednesday Group knew of (even Ivan had not done this walk before) so it proved to be a little different. I have John Hunt to thank for bringing this to my attention, the last time he did this was 22 years ago! I believe it originated as a logging track way back, as there is what appears to be a rusting old boiler about half way up, which adds to this belief. 16 of the regulars & 2 additional from New Plymouth made up the party, we all made it comfortably to the lodge, after a relatively easy climb, lunch at the lodge was a packed little gathering - the lodge is mainly used by hunters, but the hut book described a varied clientele - quad, & mountain bikers, didn't appear to be many trampers listed; there is quite a splendid view from the rear of the lodge. Permission has to be sought, to go over private land to get access to the start of the track. Dave Pollard

Mount Bruce - Just downstream of the old bridge our group of 21 easily waded the chilly stream to follow the new track up to join Braddicks track. Although we did not find a route to the larger area of open grassland top remembered by some, we nevertheless found good views & enjoyable tramping. Marion Beadle, Wed. Group.

Te Mara - 10th April - by Tim Swale

The day after Howard's splendid Kapiti Island trip, Linda Campbell, Ian Algie & myself set off on a bush bashing expedition to find our way round the Kiriwhakapapa, TeMara, Blue Range loop. I had a group of children from school doing the Wairarapa Mountain Safety Council Bushcraft course for their Duke of Edinburgh's Award based at the Kiriwhaka-papa road end, so I was keen to catch up with them & see how they were getting on. The road end camping area which has been greatly improved by DOC in the last year was a hive of activity with trampers preparing to go out for the day & campers finishing off their breakfast in the bright morning sun.

By 9.30am we were on our way heading towards the saddle between Kiriwhakapapa & Mikimiki. From here we set a compass bearing & headed off track on the spur that climbs to TeMara. It turned out travel was relatively easy with faint traces of a track in places, a few pink tape markers & nothing much in the way of difficult vegetation to cause us to deviate from the ridge.

About 2/3 of the way up, we came across a tent & concluded that there may be hunters in the area. Sure enough, about twenty minutes later we heard the sound of a stag roaring followed by voices not too far away. Three gunshots very close by stopped us in our tracks & we replied with several blasts on our whistle to let the hunters know we were in their area. We never saw them because of the thick bush but it does make one realise that tramping off track in the "Roar" needs a bit of extra caution. Bright coloured clothing is probably a good idea.

We had lunch just below the summit of TeMara & then headed over the top & took the north-easterly spur down towards Blue Range Hut. Yet again the new Topo 50 map has a glitch in that the actual DOC track is not quite where it is shown. However, it was not a hard finding the track, it just wasn't quite where we were expecting it.

Afternoon tea was at the quirky but delightful Blue Range Hut before we set out for our final descent to Kiriwhakapapa. Overall a very pleasant day in the bush.

Colenso Trig – 4th May

By Bev Akers

A full bus & carload headed to Kawhatau Base via Rangiwhahia which is shorter distance than going via Mangaweka. At the end of the road before driving through Liz & Alan Rennie's farm, you must fill in the intention book. You are supposed to phone prior to arriving, to get permission. We were confronted with an interesting Doc sign saying "No access between March 20th – April 30th unless arranged with Alan & Liz in advance. Phone (06) 3825555 ". This was a booking of the Lodge due to the Roar, I guess. So keep this in mind over the roar period. Lucky for us it was the 4th. Two helicopters were just leaving as we arrived.

Once on the track climbing up hill, we had to scramble round several tree falls, a sign of very strong winds recently. Needs a bit of work done with chainsaws. Still, a lovely track, getting up onto the tops, with great views. (18 trampers).

"...And what did you do at the weekend?" LandSAR Operation 7 May 2011. By Howard Nicholson

A text message arrived late on a Friday night, interrupting my plans for a relaxing start to the weekend. At the same time, dozens of people were receiving the same message: "PNSAR: Evening, I require 2 search teams for search Otaki area..." A quick reply was followed by the usual scramble for everything required for a 5:30am start; all of my tramping gear, food for three days, cooking gear, tent fly & a bivvy bag (one never knows where they may end up the following night). Several other members of MTSC were doing the same, & after a few short hours of sleep we were meeting at the local Police Station.

We were briefed of the situation at Levin &, after picking up more gear (radios, maps, GPS, etc.) we were driven to the local showgrounds to board the Palmerston North Rescue Helicopter for the first of several flights that day. After a quick hop over the front ranges, keeping one eye on the approaching rain, we were standing in the Otaki River near the bridge at Waitewaewae Hut, just minutes from Levin by helicopter but 6 hours away by road & foot.

The scenario for this search was simple, but the concerns were very real - why was a well-equipped, experienced trumper, who was setting out clues for an upcoming exercise (SAREX) overdue? And why had his Spot Me tracker transmissions not been received?

Our first task was to search up to the Otaki-Waitewaewae Forks, where a clue was expected to be found if the lost party had made it this far. Searching is definitely a team effort; for instance, while one team member found some prints heading upstream another found a point where someone had scrambled up a river bank. We soon had our first planted clue, effectively narrowing down the search area & allowing other teams to be deployed in the more likely areas.

Our next task involved another short helicopter flight to a spot on the Oriwa Ridge. There were no landing places here, so it was on with the winch strop & out the door. As sometimes happens, I began to spin as I went down, but thankfully was gently manoeuvred into a tree before continuing my descent. The winch training session in the Kahuterawa Valley only 2 weeks earlier really paid off & soon all our team were on the ground, in the bush & a few walking-hours away from our previous river location.

Finding a planted clue here could limit the search to two instead of three river catchments. We were tracking a person down the ridge, but was it our lost party? Soon we had a Police search dog team from Wellington with us & it was interesting to see how the dog worked under these conditions. A passing thunderstorm reminded us that we may be camping in the wet tonight.

Shortly, we heard that the lost party had been found, & that we needed to find a good extraction point. We headed back up the ridge to a gap in the canopy, & hoped that we could be picked up tonight in spite of the deteriorating weather & approaching darkness.

The "chop-chop-chop" of an approaching Iroquois helicopter coincided with a lowering cloud base. Soon we had two of our team on board; then our transport flew off into the gloom. I reconfirmed that the dog handler indeed had a tent, but soon the helo was overhead again, having checked that they could still make an escape should the weather deteriorate further. Twenty minutes later & we were drinking soup at the Levin Police Station.

To answer my earlier questions - the intended route of the lost party was a lot more arduous than they initially thought. The tracking device appears to have been functioning, but a wet & dense bush canopy may have prevented the signals from being received by passing satellites. The lost party was overdue, but thankfully alive & well due to being well equipped with the basics for survival - shelter, food and warmth.

Several MTSC members are involved with LandSAR, & we can usually count on about 5-20 members being involved in most operations requiring more than just a police-team response. SAR is an emergency situation & usually requires an immediate response. MTSC members bring backcountry skills & experience that makes them deployable in many situations.

Members involved in this search included Maren Domke, Peter Rawlins, Ivan Rienks, Tim Swale, Ken Mercer, Tony Groome, Sonja Turk, Neal Harold & article author Howard Nicholson.

Booking and use of the MTSC Transit Van

The normal run-of-the-mill things you need to do if using the Transit Van are:

1. Book preferably by Thursday, and certainly no later than 6 pm Friday.
2. Cancel bookings by these times so others needing the van have time to amend travel arrangements.
3. A fly should be carried on every tramp, there is always one in the passenger door of the club van and they are available from the Gear Custodian at no charge. There is a Personal Locator Beacon, in the glove box, for people using the van to take with them.

Trip leaders and those planning trips should use this club asset. Adam Match is our minibus custodian and he can be contacted at (06) 359 2796 or at work (06) 953 7679.

Club Equipment

We have two personal locator beacons (PLB), packs, 2 and 3 person tents, fly-sheets, snow mats, sleeping bag cover, gas cookers, size 8 and 9 boots, billies, two bivvy bags and two big tent flies. Ice axes, crampons, and helmets are also available. Food Dehydrator: ideal for drying large and small quantities of fruit, vegetables, and meat for tramping rips. Easy to use, works well, and is available for hire from the Gear Custodian. Hire cost for members, $1 per day (no charge for PLB). Contact the Gear Custodian: Peter Rawlins on (06) 356 7443.
